

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A component management system includes: a component database for registering component data regarding a plurality of components, which have been admitted to be purchased based on predetermined criteria; an e-mail server for receiving information 5 regarding components from a component provider and for sending the received information to a person in charge of component admission. The component database is updated based on a result of selection performed based on the sent information.